When you open a CD, you deposit a certain amount of money into the bank for a certain amount of time. At the Old National Bank, you can do it anywhere from three months to 50 months. But if you take your money before its term ends, the bank will hit you with a hard early withdrawal fine. So it's best to open one term you can commit too. And if you do, you can expect a decent return. In addition, the Old National Bank offers even higher rates on its Jumbo compact banks. But those require a minimum deposit of at least $10,000. If you can't do this, a standard CD with a minimum deposit of $500 should still earn you extra cash. Key Features Details Minimum Deposit for Standard CDs: $500 for Jumbo CDs: $100,000 Access to your online CD account, Mobile and Physical Branches Security FDIC Insurance up to the maximum amount allowed by law Fees No monthly fee, but early withdrawal of fines will apply Current terms and rates 30 months: 1% APY 3 years: 1.26% APY 4 years: 1.36% APY 5 years: 1.52% APY 7-8 years: 2.17% APY in the Old National Bank, you have the option of opening a traditional IRA or Roth IRA. You can open any account within a certain period of 30 months to 10 years. And compared to similar size banks, the IRA of the Old National carry down rates. If you're not sure what type to invest in, here's a review. With a traditional IRA, you get a s hanging tax cut. Your contributions come out of your paycheck before Uncle Sam takes it out and your interest rises tax. However, you would be taxed at the current rate when you make the right qualified withdrawal. Roth IRA, on the other hand, accept after-tax contributions. This means that the government has already taxed your salary before contributions have gone into account. Consequently, your qualified withdrawals will be tax, as long as you've kept an account for at least five years. So a Roth IRA can be a lucrative choice if you expect to be in a higher tax bracket upon reaching retirement. But to make the best decision, you have to choose a financial adviser to work with. This professional can help you make the right decision based on your individual situation.
